EIGHTS DISTRICT.

Colonel Meade Haskins stated that he had been over a good deal of the territory of the Third District. Biokmond and Manchester, he assured the committee, were in good condition. He referred to the week attempt to organize the Third party in Chesterfield, and in this connection said that he had heard from most reliable sources that some of these organizers of the People's party in various counties were Republicans who had said that they did not intend to vote for the Third party, but simply to get Democrats to do so. In New Kent and Goochland the Democrats were well satisfied.

Of these diseases Uterine and Ovarian treatment of the treatment must be laid. If the most eminent physicians in the country, between the parts affected are relapsed, artificial supports are worse than useless affording only the merest temporary relief, usually followed by excruenting agony when removed even for a brief space of time. Neither can drugs permanently cure with any degree of certainty, and hence recourse is had to the surgeon's kinfe, in spite of the fact that medicas statistics show that the fatality in operations of this description is fearthly high, especially when the disease is located in the ovaries. Even the surgeon's kill, however, is not a radical cure and many ladies have left the operating-table invalidation of the treatment of the feet the operating-table invalidation of the treatment of the feet the operating-table invalidation of the treatment of the feet of the feet the operating the provided of the treatment of the feet o duct this force to the person under treatment. It is devoid of current, shock, and usually sensation, until the symptoms of change arise. Even if connected with battery no current could be maintained as only a single cord is used, making it impossible to complete a circuit. A current would destroy the wonderful effects belonging to the Electropoise. It causes the absorption of oxygen through the skin and membranes of the patient, attracting by drogen and causing combustion in the tissues of the body which generate vital force and stimulates every function of the body.
